

"Learning from The Three Little Pigs: Responding to Moving Air and Patience"

We will present the story of the Three Little Pigs. We will talk about how taking our time pays off in our lives, just like the pig who built his house with bricks.

We will show how we built the three houses out of straw, sticks and bricks (using materials like Legos and drinking straws). We will show how easily (or not at all) the different building materials respond to moving air, from various sources. We will show our findings and give the public an opportunity to try it themselves.