

What hibernation is and how hibernation helps the human body?

We are the hibernation group. We will be talking about what hibernation is and how hibernation helps the human body. On our two tri-folds, there will be facts about the animal's body, their life cycle, and a couple of graphs. We will connect with NASA about space (Not needed for abstract). They are trying to send humans to Mars. Our visitors will walk in a camping tent that will represent a cave where a bear sleeps. Before they walk in, they will check their heart rate to understand what it would be like if they were a bear coming out of hibernation. They will learn that the bear's heart rate drops 80% when they go into hibernation and rises when they come out. Our interactive activities for the children are making paper plate pandas and coloring sheets of bears so that they can have fun at our booth.
